Secretaries McAdoo, Baker and Lane, with Russian Ambassador, Go to Jersey—Secretary of War and Mrs. Baker Motor to Camp Meade with Their Children—Miss Julia Meyer and Mr. Brambilla to Be Married October 1.

The Vice President and Mrs. Marshall left Washington yesterday for New York where they will remain until the middle of the week. The Vice President will attend the fifth anniversary of the 33rd degree Scottish Rite Masons.

The Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. McAdoo, the Secretary of War, Mr. Baker, and the Secretary of Interior, Mr. Lane, with Mr. Boris Bakhmeteff, Ambassador of Russia, have left Washington for Atlantic City, where today they will attend the Chamber of Commerce, and each will deliver an address.

The Secretary of War and Mrs. Baker and their two younger children, "Jack" and Margaret, the youngest of the family, nicknamed "Peggy," motored to Camp Meade yesterday, where they will make an informal inspection of the camp. They returned to their home in Georgetown later in the day that the Secretary will prepare his trip to Atlantic City.

Little Miss Elizabeth Baker, the elder of the three children, called "Betty," by her family and friends, is the guest of the children of the Red Cross Motor Corps in Washington. The wedding will take place in the early winter.

On Monday, October 1, the marriage of Miss Julia Appleton Meyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George von Lengerke Meyer, and Mr. Gulielmo Brambilla, counselor of the Italian Embassy, will take place.

The ceremony will be performed at high noon in the Italian room of the Meyer mansion, Rockledge Farm, and Count Macchi di Cellere, the Italian Ambassador, will be best man. Miss Appleton has been engaged to a bridegroom, and will also be Camilla Lippincott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lippincott, of Washington.

Miss Lippincott has been the guest of her cousin at Rock Maple Farm for some time and will remain there until after the wedding. A charming romance surrounds the engagement and marriage of Miss Meyer and Mr. Brambilla, in that they met in Rome, while Mr. George von L. Meyer was Ambassador at Rome from the United States. A breakfast and reception will follow the ceremony.

Mrs. Charles A. Munn, who spent the summer at Manchester, and who is now in the Washington Club, for the winter, has left Manchester for a motor trip through the White Mountains.

Viscount Ishii, head of the Japanese Mission and the members of his party, are to enjoy a feast at Newport's famous Clambake Club, a most novel entertainment that has yet been given in his honor on these shores. Yesterday, Viscount Ishii and his party attended the ceremonies at the tomb of Commodore Perry, and were suitably entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cleave, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Hamilton Rice and Capt. and Mrs. Perry Blomont.

Tomorrow Viscount Ishii and his suite will be received by Gov. McCall, of Massachusetts. While in Boston, Ishii and his suite will be entertained by Mr. Lars Anderson, who is now at Walden, his beautiful summer home at Beverly Farms.

Mr. and Mrs. Gist Blair, who are spending the early days of autumn in the White Mountains, will remain at the Profile House through the rest of this month.

The Minister of China and Mme. Koo, who are now at their summer place in the Green Spring Valley, will return to the legation the middle of this week and will have as guests, Mme. Sze, wife of the Chinese minister at London, and Mme. Hsiao, wife of the Chinese minister at Paris, who are en route from China to join their husbands at their respective posts.

Count Macchi di Cellere, the Ambassador of Italy who spent Sunday with his family at Blue Ridge Summit, accompanied by Baron di Valentino, and Mr. Gino Buti, of the embassy staff, were returned to Washington today, accompanied by his secretaries.

The Minister of Bolivia, Mr. Calderon, who is in New York for a short stay, was joined there yesterday by Mme. Calderon and Miss Elena Calderon, who left Washington Sunday morning.

Miss Eleanor Kellogg Chase, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Hall Chase, of Watertown, Conn., whose engagement to Mr. Charles P. Taft, son of former President and Mrs. William Howard Taft, was recently announced, is spending the week-end in Washington at the Willard, to be near Mr. Taft, who is at the artillery camp at St. Asaph, Va.

Their wedding will probably take place in the late autumn.

Miss Janet Munday, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Forsyth Munday, was married Saturday to Mr. John Douglas Gordon, of New York, at her mother's home in I. street. Only members of the families were present.

Mrs. Gordon is the daughter of the late Dr. Benjamin Munday, and the granddaughter of the late Col. Lewis Cass Forsyth. Mr. Gordon is the son of Mr. James Gay Gordon, of Philadelphia, Pa., who was a judge in that city. Mr. and Mrs. Gordon will make their home in New York.

Capt. Frederick W. Matteson, Quartermaster Corps, U. S. R., and Mrs. Matteson, previously of Washington and now of Newport News, Va., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Matteson, to Lieut. W. Billings Wilson, Engineer Corps, U. S. R., Lieut. Wilson, who is the son of Mr. Kate Billings Wilson, of Georgetown, is with the 20th Railway Service Battalion at Camp Grant, Rockford, Ill. Miss Matteson was an active member of the Red Cross Motor Corps in Washington. The wedding will take place in the early winter.

Announcement has been made by Senora Angeline Estorres de Barrios, of 202 West 10th street, New York, of her engagement to her daughter, Miss Ines M. de Barrios, to Mr. Walter Adam Lee, of Chicago. Miss de Barrios is from an old Spanish family. Her father was Senor Don Jose de Barrios, who was widely known in this city and Havana, where his brother, Senor Don Raul de Barrios, is engaged in business. Gen. Montevideo, governor of Morocco, is her uncle. Mr. Lee is the son of the late W. H. Lee and Mrs. Sarah A. Lee, of Chicago. He has enlisted in the Naval Reserve. The wedding will take place this autumn.

Of interest throughout Virginia is the announcement by Dr. Robert L. Randolph, of Baltimore, of the engagement of his daughter, Phoebe Elliott, to Baldwin Day Spillman, Jr., son of Dr. Baldwin Day Spillman, of Baltimore. Miss Spillman is a granddaughter of the Rev. Alfred McGill Randolph, bishop of Southern Virginia. Mr. Spillman, who is with the American Ambulance Corps in France, expects to sail for France within a few weeks. No date has been announced for the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Bentley, of Richmond, Va., have just announced the engagement of their daughter, Elizabeth Logan, to Lieut. Charles R. Irving, of the Medical Corps, First Virginia regiment. Owing to the proximity of army camps in this time, the arrangements for the marriage have had to be hurried and the ceremony will take place tomorrow night, at 9 o'clock, in home of the bride.

"The stars incline, but do not compel"

HOROSCOPE.

Monday, September 17, 1917.

The evening of this day should be fairly good, for Neptune, Saturn and Jupiter are in benefic aspect. Early in the morning Mercury is in kindly sway.

It should be an auspicious day for the under and for whatever is concerned with the sea.

Warning is given, however, of a disaster that will cause serious loss of life in midocean.

Jupiter gives promise of great profits in certain lines of business, but there is danger of panic or fear that may affect trade in certain quarters.

Bankers and financiers should make the most of this rule, which promises profit, but they should be exceedingly cautious.

Shoemakers, harnessmakers and all who deal in leather goods have the most favorable government of the stars.

Saturn is in an aspect very promising for mining and coal. Coal and copper seem to be especially well directed.

Mercury gives promise of great and unusual business for newspapers and magazines, but some serious trouble over taxes and expenses, but the outcome will be favorable.

Peace terms will be apparently rejected and little discussed during the late autumn, the seers declare, but there will be a sudden development.

San Francisco continues under a rule that presages exciting occurrences.

Again news wars come much into public notice and cause far-reaching anxiety, especially with the beginning of the new year.

Women and children have a direction, which appears to indicate that they are victims to disease or accident that brings death and sorrow.

Astrologers see in the stars certain color symbolism that should encourage the wearing of bright hues and the avoidance of black.

Persons whose birthdate is 1 has the outlook for a most fortunate year. Money should increase. The young will have much romance.

Children born on this day will probably be very lucky. These subjects of Virgo usually know how to save money.

Youth Achieves Desire

To Serve in Navy

The proverb, "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again," is proved in the case of Don Clifford Shriver, 17 years old, 615 E. street northwest, who, after repeated efforts, has enlisted in the navy.

July 2 he was given the oath and received his papers. At that time he was six pounds under weight but has gained nine pounds since he enlisted.

Hospital Nears Completion.

The new home of the Washington Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat Hospital, 2517 Pennsylvania avenue, is rapidly nearing completion and it is expected the hospital will occupy its new quarters early next month.

The building, four stories in height, is of fireproof construction. It is built of light buff brick, with limestone trim. The architecture and construction is of the most modern development. A carnival is being held at Twenty-sixth street and Pennsylvania avenue during the week ending October 1, and the proceeds will be devoted to outfitting and equipping the institution.

Mrs. Quinn's Experience Ought to Help You Over the Critical Period.

Lowell, Mass.—"For the last three years I have been troubled with the Change of Life and the bad feelings common at that time. I was in a very nervous condition, with headaches and pain a good deal of the time so I was unfit to do my work. A friend asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which I did, and it has helped me in every way. I am not nearly so nervous, no headache or pain. I must say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the best remedy any sick woman can take."—Mrs. Margaret Quinn, rear 253 Worthen St., Lowell, Mass.

Other warning symptoms are a sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headache, backache, drowsiness, pending evil, timidity, sounds in the ears, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness, inquietude, and dizziness.

If you need special advice, write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass.—Adv.

THE REWARD.

By DOROTHY DIX.
The World's Highest Paid Woman Writer.

They are talking in Washington of having a special medal struck to present to such of the men in our army as perform deeds of signal valor, as Germany and England and France pin decorations on the breasts of their heroes, so that all who see them may know of their bravery.

When this medal is struck, another one should be struck as a companion piece to it. This other medal should be in the design of a bleeding heart with two white bars across it, and on these bars should be in letters of gold the words PATRIOTISM AND COURAGE, and this insignia of the highest order of merit should be pinned on the breast of every woman who has willingly given husband or son to the service of her country.

Here is a love of country greater than the love of life because she offers up on the altar of her patriotism that which is far dearer to her than life itself. Here is a courage greater than that of the man who goes into battle, because he dies a thousand deaths of anxiety every day, imagining the horrors that may be happening to him, and he is a man who has not wept, nor pleaded, nor tried to keep her men folk from doing their duty to their country. I should like to take off my hat every time I see such a decoration, as a Frenchman salutes the cross of the Legion of Honor, and so I suggest that when our government strikes medals for its heroes, it also strikes a medal to give to the heroic women who have given these heroes to their country.

No one would minimize the sacrifice that a mother makes when she sends her son forth to war, but this is to be said to comfort her—war is not wholly evil. It is not even as dangerous as her morbid fancies paint it, and if many a woman will lose her son in battle, many another woman will get back a son who has been reborn in that fiery furnace, one who went forth a weakling and came back a man, one who was a coward and became a hero.

Those who know what the training of an army camp will do for a youth physically declare that as many of our young men will save their lives through the war as will be killed by it. Thin-chested, scrawny, stooped-shouldered lads, who have never done any manual labor harder than pushing a pen across a sheet of paper or up and down a ledger, and whose only exercise has been confined to fox trotting in a crowded restaurant, will come back from the war broad of shoulder, straight as an arrow, big muscled. Five more years of office work would have done these boys in the graves of consumptives. Soldiering will save them.

Hard work in the open air, sleeping out of doors, regular hours, plenty of plain nourishing food, these will drive the angel with the scythe back into the shadows of the past, and a century or more for unnumbered thousands of young men whose days, but for this war, would be numbered. The big indemnity that fate is going to pay us in this war is to turn a lot of sickly little flabby mannikins into husky men.

Another bright spot in this war is that it is doing more in one minute to stamp out intemperance than has been done in all the balance of the history of the human race. And the mother who sends her boy to serve his country may count on getting him back cured of the drink habit, if he had it, or was acquiring it.

That alone almost atones for the sacrifice of war, for while it may wring a woman's heart to watch and wait for her son to come home from war, and she may shed many tears picturing him in the trenches, her heart is not so desolate nor her tears so bitter as if she sat watching and waiting for the stumbling steps of a drunken son, or if her fancy pictured him lying in the gutter. For in one case she has the comfort of knowing that he is doing the part of a man, and in the other she has the sorrow of knowing that he has descended below the level of the brute.

No man in the uniform of the United States army can touch a drop of intoxicating liquor. That ruling is good.

HER SECOND WIFE.

"She's actually jealous of her husband's first wife!" I exclaimed. "What?" she asked. "Mother." "Why, Mary, child, what are you talking about?" I held out to her a letter written by a girl who had married a widower. "I think he's horrid, too, I told Mother. I don't see how she can love him so much!" "Of course she does! She means everything to him. And it all depends on herself how much or how often he thinks of his first wife. Men are not given to retrospection and they hate to see the trait exercised by a woman. Take my word for it, if this girl would only pet and flatter her husband and keep his house cheerful and comfortable for him, he wouldn't exchange her for all the angels in Paradise, and she may count upon it that the memory of his first wife would seldom disturb his mind."

"He married a second wife, first, because he loved her, and next, because he wanted to forget everything except the happy present. Men live in the present. Only women mourn over the past."

"This girl stop her foolish moping and bring the love and sunshine to her husband that he married her to obtain. And she must never be backward about asking for what she wants, so long as her wants are reasonable. And she must see that her desires are gratified. The more she demands the more she will get. It is man's nature to value most what costs him most."

"This is what Mother says, and I hope the sad young wife will realize how true it is, and how foolish she is to let herself be unhappy when her husband wants to make her happy. That is a dear story about your baby boy. Kiss him for 'Mary Pickford.' Thank you for your sympathy about Little Anna."

M. B. M.—You are a true patriot and I enjoy all the more your praise of my plays. You will find that any Red Cross workman in Chicago will be glad to have your services for what time you can spare them. They have work for all.

Helen L. S.—I am so glad that you like my articles and my plays. I think you will enjoy "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" quite as much as you have done "The Poor Little Rich Girl" and "A Little American." You must write what you think of Rebecca.

ing to save from the curse of drunkenness tens of thousands of boys who were just beginning to acquire a taste for liquor. At the risk of their skin, their souls will be saved.

Building up their bodies is going to keep the neurotic from having their nerves cry out for stimulants. The cold hard fact that drink diminishes a man's efficiency to such an extent that it cannot be risked in war times is the biggest temperance argument that could possibly be offered to a man with any intelligence in his head. Keep a boy away from drink during the gilly years in which he thinks it shows how much of a man he is to make a swine out of himself, and he's not likely to ever become a drunkard.

All of these are factors in the great reformation in drinking that the war is bringing about, and that will almost justify it in the eyes of women who have found King Alcohol as deadly an enemy as ever the Kaiser is.

Another good thing that this war is going to do for the youth of the country is to give it the discipline that it needs. American parents are too soft, they have too little backbone and nerve to stand up and fight their self-willed children to a finish. It is a common thing to hear parents say that they don't know what is going to stick to their twelve and fourteen year old boys—that they can't do a thing with Johnnie who is running around at night with Heaven knows whom and who does as he pleases.

And the result is that Johnnie grows up to be a loafer and a hoodlum, and becomes one of the men who are failures, who are always changing business, because they haven't the grit to stick to anything after it gets hard.

The iron hand of the army will do for these spoiled boys what their parents failed to do. It will take no heed of their likes or dislikes, their dispositions or their tempers. It will teach them for the first time the meaning of duty. It will hold them to a hard task until it breeds in them determination and endurance. It will develop this golden side of the child, and many a man who will make a big success in life after the war is over will owe his achievement to the discipline he got in the army.

Let mothers everywhere consider this golden side of the shield of war. For it is just as real as the leaden side over which they weep.
